Air particles

This symbol represents the transformation of scattered energy into focused value. Each element moves from outer chaos to inner balance — just like Mersaad turns carbon into clarity.

1. Central Hexagon = Core Stability

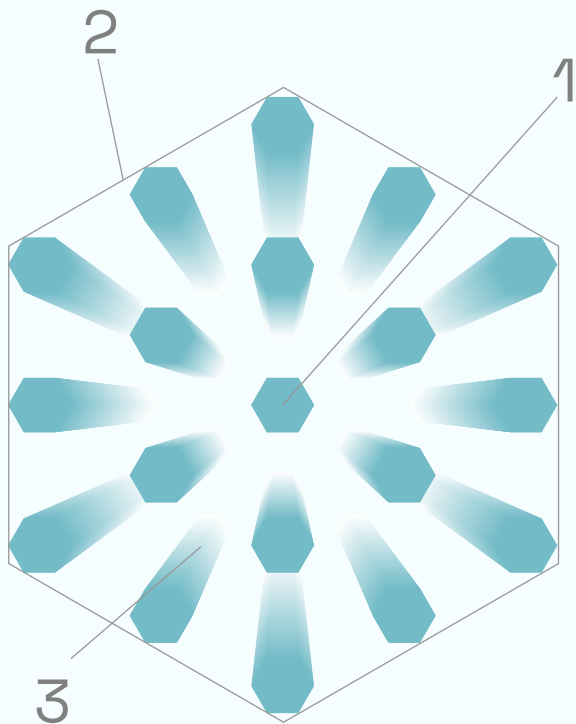

The inner hexagon represents the stable structure that results from Mersaad's technology — turning atmospheric carbon into a solid, valuable core.

2. Outer Hex Paths = Process of Capture and Alignment

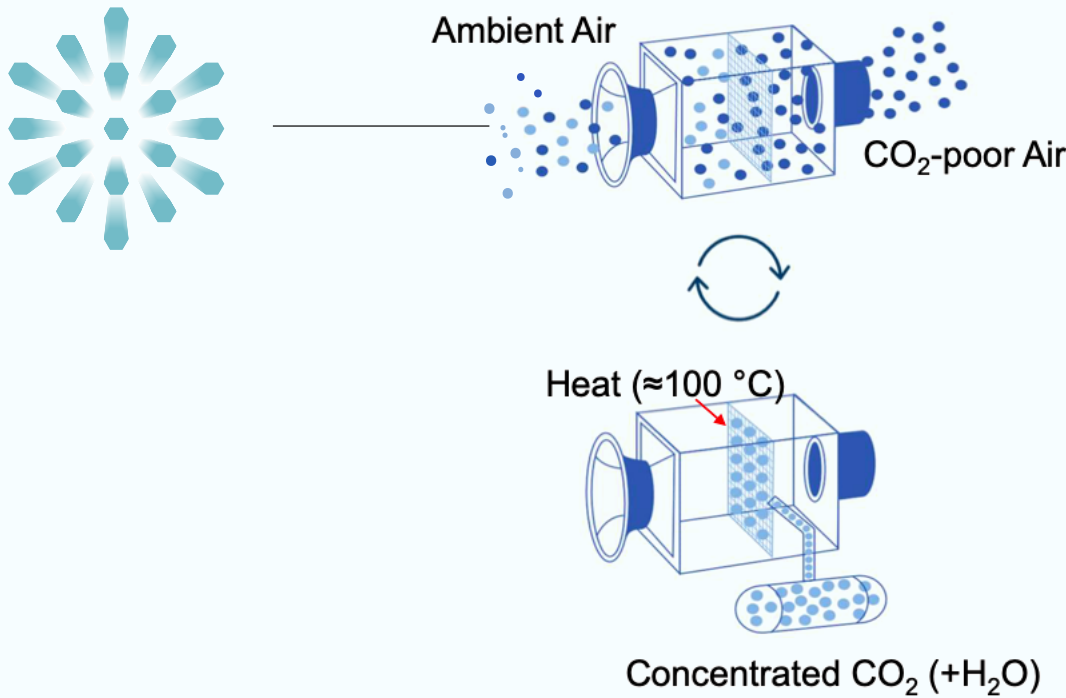

The surrounding hexagonal rays symbolize captured carbon aligning toward a system — reflecting how Mersaad brings order, direction, and transformation.

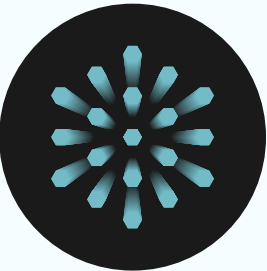

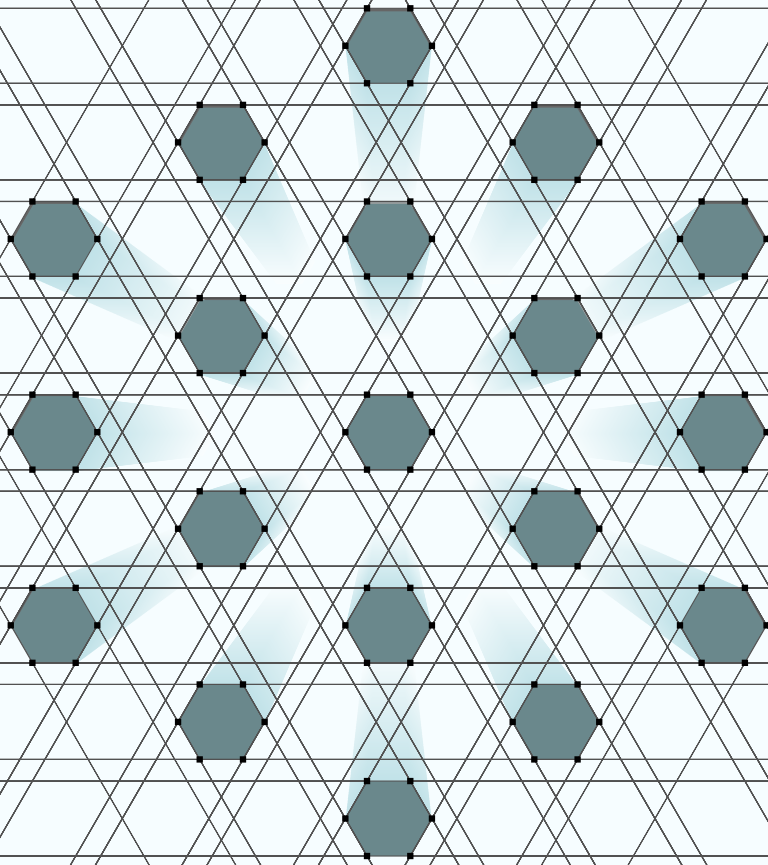

3. Light Gradient = Energy Transition

The fading gradient in each element symbolizes the conversion of invisible energy into visible matter — a soft yet powerful shift, just like turning air into mineral.

Logo Variations

The Triple Wave

- 1. The three wave lines form the letter M, a subtle yet direct reference to Mersaad.
- 2. The shape evokes both air and water — the essential natural elements Mersaad interacts with:
 - A.— Air: source of carbon
 - B.— Water: symbol of purification and flow
- 3. The logo is calm, scalable, and timeless — reflecting a quiet strength and clean innovation.

Concept 3

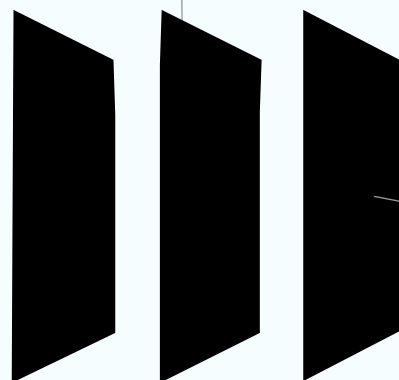

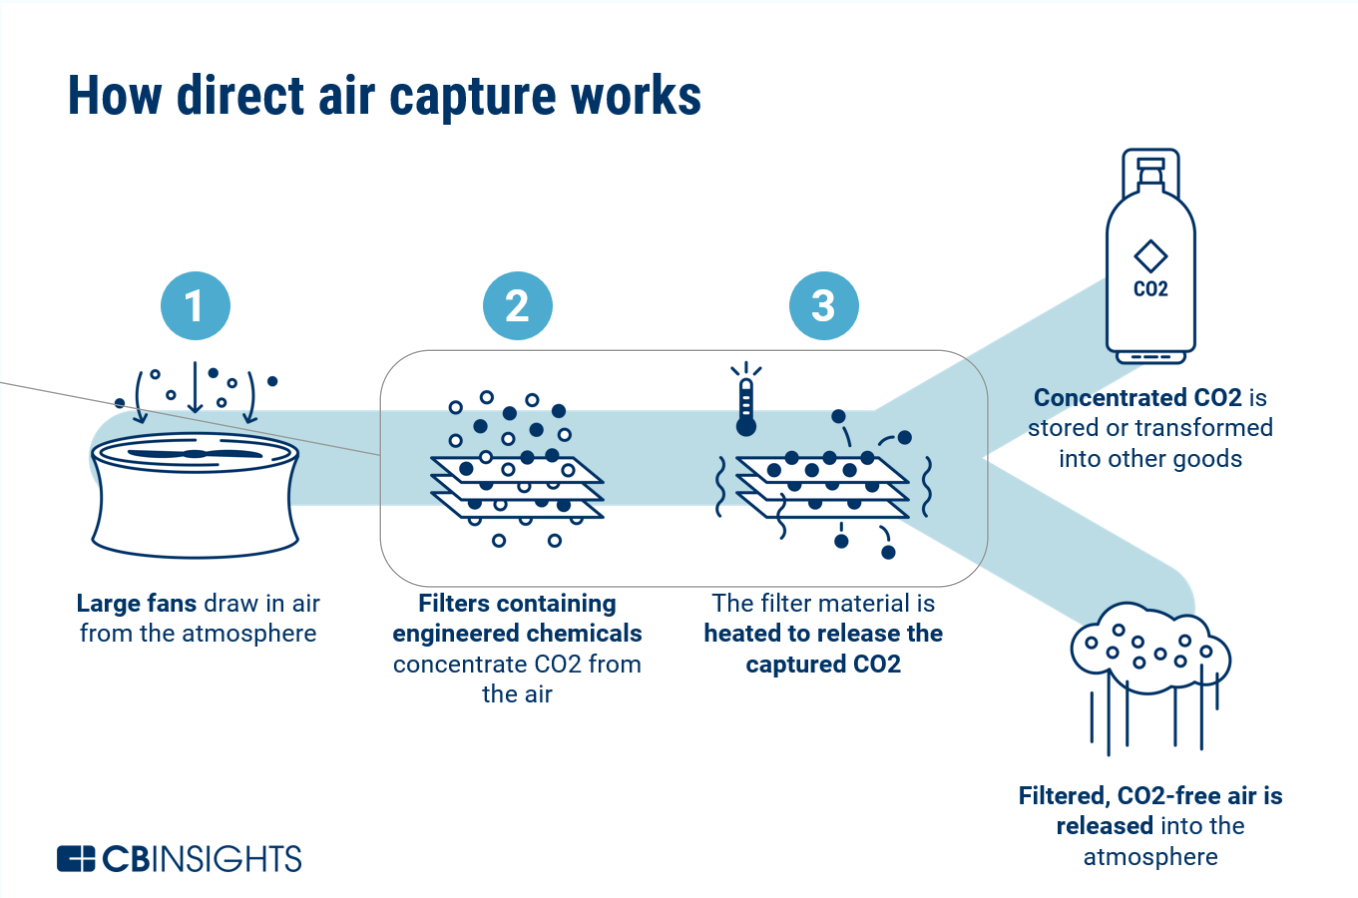

Concept: Negative M + Filtration Layers

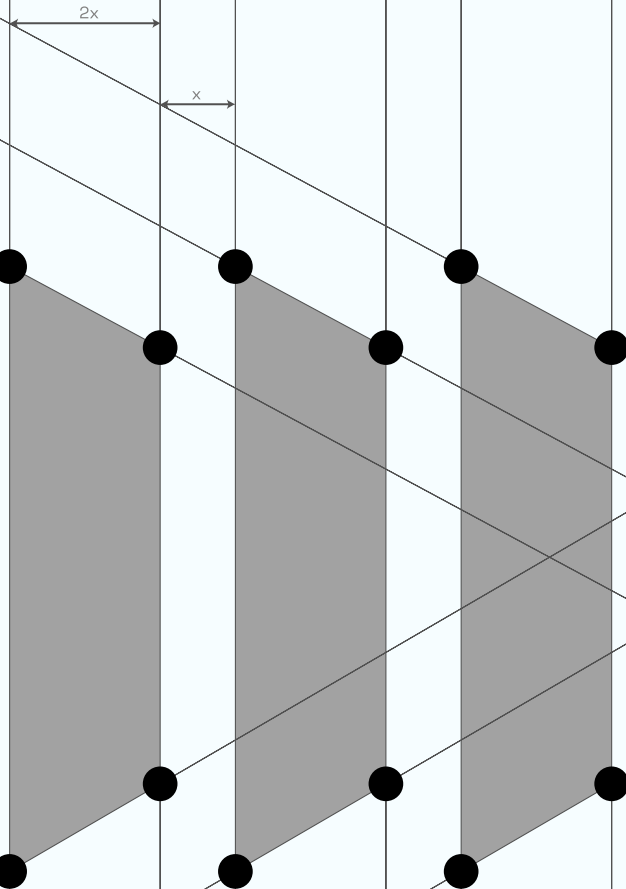

- 1. The three bold shapes act as air filtration layers, symbolizing Mersaad’s scientific process.
- 2.The negative space between them subtly forms the letter M, representing the brand name without being obvious.
- 3.The overall form is strong, minimal, and scalable — a quiet system that turns invisible air into solid value.
- 4. 4. The geometric order shows the company’s formal, structured mindset — turning chaos into clarity.
